To Subscribers.

As the year is drawing to a close, we request all subscribers to the CHRONICLE who are in arrears to pay their subscription. Most of them, no doubt, regard it as a small matter, and so it is to them, but the aggregate of the subscription due us is a considerable amount and it is very important to our business that it be promptly paid. We don't mean to complain of our patrons. The majority of them have been remarkably prompt in settling their dues, but "business is business" and we simply wish to suggest that this is the time of year to make settlements.

Next year will be pregnant of great political events. Besides the Presidential contest numerous state elections are to occur in which the public will be interested. The CHRONICLE will contain all the news of interest and give special prominence to these important political matters. No pains will be spared to make the paper a thorough compendium of information which will meet all the wants of subscribers. We are thankful for the liberal patronage that has been given us and hope to largely increase our subscription list before the end of the year.

You can get some real nice Christmas goods at Kinnaman, Son & Co. Try them.

The oranges at Crisman & Howard's from Mr. Seat's Florida grove, are the finest we have seen this season. Now is the time to buy.

Go to J. F. Wood's hardware and buy something useful for a Christmas present.

A SPECIAL term of the Circuit Court will be held at Erin on the third Monday in January.

Rev. J. A. Orman, preaching, will hold quarterly meeting at Salem on the Southside, Thursday and Sunday.

We are requested to announce that the Rev. Mr. Rodier will preach at the Episcopal church on Sunday the 15th inst.

MR. B. L. BRIDGES of Memphis, and Miss Rosa Newell of this city, were married at the residence of the bride's mother on the 13th inst., by Rev. J. W. Lupton.

DR. J. B. McFERRIN, of Nashville, has so far recovered to be able to write a card for this week's issue, in which he states that he hopes he will be able to be in office next week.

We learn that the Paradise Hotel at Moseley's Hill is impassable on account of a bridge being built at that point. The people coming the city will have to take some other route for the present.

THE Henderson, Ky., News of the 11th inst., says: "We know of two crops of tobacco selling on Friday last, one at $10, 10 and 3, and the other at $10 50, 10 50 and 3."

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN THAXTON.

His Examination Before Judge Tyler Wednesday.

Benjamin F. Thaxton was brought before Judge Tyler in the Criminal Court room Wednesday, to ascertain whether there were sufficient grounds for committing him for trial on a charge of complicity in the attempted burglary and assassination at Mr. J. J. Garrett's on the night of the 19th ult. The case was begun promptly at 11:30 o'clock, the time set, and the court room was filled with eager spectators. The Judge ordered the bar cleared of all except lawyers and newspaper reporters and stationed officers at the apertures to keep the crowd behind the railing. The defendant was represented by T. L. Yancey, Esq., Attorney General Bureau appearing for the State. All the witnesses were put under rules.

After calling his witnesses, the Attorney General announced "not ready," on account of the absence of Mr. Garrett, but offered to proceed with the witnesses present, if after hearing the testimony the court would continue the case until next Tuesday, when Mr. Garrett can be introduced. After some argument on that point, the court agreed to the proposition, remarking, among other things, that it would be better for the complete vindication of the prisoner if he were innocent, and for the good of the State, if he were guilty, that there should be a full and fair investigation of the matter and that for the accommodation of the Logan county, Ky., witnesses, it was best to proceed with the evidence at hand.

R. M. WARDEN, Sheriff of Logan county, was the first witness introduced. He lived in Russellville. Had known Thaxton a year or probably a year and a half. Thaxton lived in Logan county last year and a part of this year with Tom Lyon, keeper of the County farm. The farm is about a mile from Russellville. Thaxton worked there as an ordinary hand. He had seen Thaxton in Russellville several times this year. Could not say how often. Arrested him at Dillard Sanders' house, 11 miles from Russellville at 12 o'clock on the 24th ult. Thaxton was eating dinner when arrested, in company with Mrs. Sanders, two other ladies and two men. He didn't say anything at the time. On the way to Russellville he told the sheriff that he could prove that he was at Mr. Will Akerman's on the night of the burglary, and also told him that he was shot at by an unknown man at Mr. Akerman's that night and showed a scorched place about six inches long across his vest where the bullet passed. Said that the shooting occurred in the early part of the night. On cross examination Sheriff Warden said that the men among the witnesses summoned by defendant were good people and he would believe them on oath. He didn't know the women. He admitted on a redirect examination that he had heard things said to the discredit of Will Akerman and his wife since the habeas corpus trial at Russellville.

MR. JAMES W. BENTON, a Russellville policeman, testified that Thaxton got off the train coming from the South, at Russellville at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, the 20th ult. Said he knew Thaxton well, had known him for two years. That he talked to him when he got off the train, and they walked together a hundred yards or more. He said he was thoroughly satisfied that it was Tuesday morning, the 20th ult., that Thaxton got off the train, though he could give no special reason why he knew that it was that date. Mr. Benton was a young man of very respectable and intelligent appearance. He was neatly dressed in a blue military suit, as was also

MR. MONROE HARDY, Chief of police in Russellville. He testified that he knew Thaxton well. That he saw him and talked to him at the depot about a week before the trial at Russellville. Thaxton was on the seven o'clock train going South and told him he was going to Clarksville to see his wife. He couldn't say for certain that it was on Monday night the 19th ult., but it couldn't have been as long as two weeks before the trial at Russellville. That was the same night that Thaxton had been with Mr. Benton. He asked Thaxton after his arrest what night it was he saw him at the depot and Thaxton said it was 19 days previous to that time, it could not have been so long. Society for the benefit of the Methodist Church on the 21st, 22nd and 23rd of this month. They will be given in the vacant room between Stewart's drug store and Stratton's shoe store.

On the night of the 9th ult., she says she heard him say that Bill Taylor and Ed Short were not a hundred miles away. That he was then breaking on a freight train, that he would return in two weeks and bring his wife $50 or $60, and that she must not go to her brother until he had returned.

MR. W. C. SMITH, Mr. J. P. Smith and Mr. Barry each testified that seven men suddenly, and rather rudely, appeared at their tent in the railroad camp on Major Henry's place, Friday night before the burglary. The two former were certain that the man killed at Mr. Garrett's was one of those men. They recognized him from the picture published in the CHRONICLE. They also thought that Thaxton was one of the seven. The last mentioned witness said that the picture in the CHRONICLE looked like one of the men who came to the camp but he couldn't say that he ever saw Thaxton before.

MRS. AKERMAN was the first witness introduced for the defense. She had known Thaxton since last spring, when he moved to her house to make a crop on the shares with her husband. He moved his family away in August because he and his wife couldn't get along together well. He sold his interest in the crop to her husband when he moved away but had come back himself in a few days and worked for wages by the week. He was at her house on the night of the 19th ult. She remembered the date because she had written a letter that night for Miss Mason which was dated the 19th. She had looked in the Almanac to ascertain the date. Thaxton and her husband had dug potatoes during the day and at night burnt the potato vines. It was not raining that night. It was a starlight night. At eleven o'clock Thaxton went out to get some wood and came back and said he saw a man between the well and the barn. He then went out again. He said he didn't go with him because he had pulled off his shoes. After Thaxton was out awhile she heard four shots. He came back to the house and said a man had shot at him and he had shot at the man three times. Thaxton said he believed he was shot. She smelled something like burnt powder when he came in. Her husband examined him and found that a hole had been shot through the left breast of his coat and that his vest was singed by a bullet passing across it. The company that was at her house in the first part of the night had gone away at 10 o'clock. The shooting occurred at 11 o'clock. She never asked Thaxton any questions about the shooting when he came in, nor her husband didn't ask any. Thaxton made no explanation as to who he thought it was or anything about it. They sat up till 3 o'clock because they were excited about the shooting. The stock in the stable belonged to her husband. Thaxton had no interest in them. She had never written a letter to Thaxton while he was away from her house. She once wrote a few lines on the back of a letter her husband wrote him.

WILL AKERMAN told substantially the same story that his wife did, contradicting her only in the statement that Thaxton had said nothing about the shooting to her husband after the shooting about it occurred. Thaxton had talked very freely about the shooting and he had asked him a number of questions. His wife was present and heard it all.

MRS. MASON, and her daughter, who are close neighbors of the Akermans, testified that they were at Akerman's house on the night of the 19th from seven until 10 o'clock and Thaxton was there during that time. They went to Akerman's to have Mrs. Akerman's new dress made for the young lady. The letter was produced in court. The Masons were not related to either Thaxton or Will Akerman, but were some way connected to Mr. Julius Akerman, a cousin of Will Akerman. They both said the moon rose at 9 o'clock.

MISS LYONS, a sister of Mrs. Akerman's, lived with the Akermans and substantially corroborated their testimony.

MR. SANDERS, Thaxton's brother-in-law, testified to seeing Thaxton pass and re-pass his house going to and from Russellville on Tuesday morning, the 20th. He said William Taylor, a brother-in-law of his and of Thaxton's, was alive, living with his father in Logan county. He knew no other Wm. Taylor, but had heard of numerous persons by that name since the burglary. Thaxton was at his house Sunday, the day before the burglary occurred. Thaxton told him of the shooting at Akerman's when he passed his house Tuesday morning.

MR. DAN AKERMAN, father of Will Akerman, testified to seeing Thaxton Sunday, the 18th, and Mr. Julius Akerman corroborated Sanders as to Thaxton's passing to and from Russellville Tuesday, the 20th.

SHERIFF WARDEN being again put on the stand testified that Akerman and Thaxton had told him different stories about the shooting at Akerman's house. Thaxton first told him that it occurred early in the night and Akerman said it took place at 11 o'clock. The court then adjourned until next Tuesday, when the trial will be continued, and the evidence of Mr. Garrett given in.

THE congregation at the Episcopal church Sunday were very much pleased with the sermon of the Rev. Mr. Rodier. It was a discourse that displayed advance thought and scholarly investigation, pleasantly delivered and fringed in language that added to its attractions.

NO ONE can imagine how pretty they are making Christmas cards, until they see to what perfection the art is brought by Messrs. Prong. Our line this year is larger than ever before, and includes all the prices as well as the choice satin and mounted cards. We will be pleased to show our stock.

CRUSMAN & HOWARD.

A SOLDIER OF THE LEGION.

Lays Dead, Not in Algeria, but the Clarksville Catalogue.

The large advertising space occupied by Crisman & Howard in this issue of the CHRONICLE, will not fail to attract the notice of our readers. It is not necessary, therefore, that we direct their attention to the advertisement, but we feel called upon to say something of the commendable enterprise which this very popular house has exhibited. Crisman of this firm is well known as one of the most thorough going and energetic of Clarksville merchants. He never does anything by half, or peace-meals; his ideas are large, his heart is liberal, and he does everything on a scale commensurate with his magnanimous disposition.

Since fitting up the elegant retail department in the front portion of their business house, Messrs. Crisman & Howard have determined to make the experiment of bringing to Clarksville in large quantities, a first-class quality of fancy groceries, such as were never put on this market before, and for which our citizens have been accustomed to send to the large cities of the North. In order to make this experiment a success, they are now selling these goods at a very small margin on their wholesale cost, and actually cheaper than the same goods can be bought in the large grocery houses of Cincinnati and Louisville. They have on hand a large supply of Christmas goods, consisting of jellies, preserves, canned goods, mince meat, etc., that are greatly superior to the goods of this class that are usually sold in Clarksville stores, and are equal to the very best home made productions of that kind.

I had often wondered what had become of the old man who used to interest me so much with accounts of his campaign in Algeria.

I trust you may live many years to come, and may your last years be your best years. May flowers be scattered along your pathway, and when life shall close, may you wake up in the great unknown, "right side up, with care."

He had certificates from officers in company D, of the 10th Cavalry, dated at Fort Sill, I. T., Oct. 6th, 1877, certifying that he had been tailor to that company and discharged his duty well. He had only a nickle in money on his person.

THE meeting called to consider the freeing of the turnpikes, bridges and ferries failed to assemble on the 7th, and was called again for the night of the 12th, when a few gentlemen assembled in a room at the Court House. Mr. Leech was appointed to issue a circular calling a meeting for next Tuesday night. On motion of Mr. Merritt Hall, the report of the committee appointed at a former meeting was deferred.

THE new engine of the I. A. & T. R. R. was placed on the track Tuesday afternoon, and with some fat cars will soon go to work, ending the construction force, "An Observer" was kind enough to furnish us with all the particulars incident to placing the engine on the track, but his communication came in too late for us to use it.

THE subject for the sermon at the Christian Church Sunday morning will be, "A Practical Lesson for the Followers of Christ." In the evening: "Is the Church a Necessity to Those Whose Lives are Already Purged?" Elder N. J. Dele will preach at New Providence Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

CLARKVILLE TOBACCO MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE CHRONICLE.

CLARKVILLE, TENN., Dec. 14, 1883.

The office of the Board this week was 110 bales. The general quality was poor, and generally in high order. Low grades were near by lower, though the demand seemed good, with a disposition to buy at the prices. But with large offerings to be made in the future, the market was in the loose tobacco market.
